Dear Members,

We have a newsletter full of news and opportunities for you this month, all with an international focus.

NIBS Worldwide Case Competition, 4-11 March 2023

Finally, student teams get the chance to travel and compete against each other in the championship round of NIBS Worldwide Case Competition (in person, hurrah), the excitement is building. Even if you are not sending a team please join us in supporting the teams via the case competition website, Instagram @nibscase and Twitter @NIBScase. 16 teams participate in the competition and there is a live scoreboard available on the website so you can keep a track of daily student successes.

Chris Schrage and the team at the University of Northern Iowa have been working hard to make this an excellent case competition with a full social programme. A warm welcome awaits the teams travelling from all over the world to participate, please read the recent news article which talks about what they have planned and also includes the perspectives of students helping out as ambassadors. <https://inside.uni.uni.edu/business/college-business-students-help-plan-international-business-case-competition-campus>

NIBS Annual Conference, 10-12 May 2023

NIBS members are invited to consider the following two opportunities to showcase research and/or international projects whilst attending the conference.

Research - Call for submissions for presentation at the NIBS Conference

Are you interested in presenting your current or recent research at the upcoming NIBS Annual Conference in Daejeon, Korea? We are offering an opportunity to our members who are involved in pedagogical/didactic or applied research to share an overview of their work at the conference. If accepted, you will be able to present your research for 20 minutes, followed by 10 minutes of Q&A and helpful suggestions and comments from your fellow NIBS members. Moreover, the peer-reviewed presentation provides a professional development opportunity that can be noted in your CV and school's annual review.

Please contact our NIBS Board member and research coordinator Dr. Jeff Johnson at jjohnson6@stmaryx.edu about participating in our research session.

David Gillingham Award

Named in recognition of the founding president of NIBS, the David Gillingham Award was introduced in 2013. It aims to honour outstanding, internationally-oriented business education projects, and to encourage NIBS member schools to share best practices with their peers.

The David Gillingham Award is open to all NIBS member institutions. To be considered, schools should prepare a description of the initiative (no more than 500 words) along with two PowerPoint summary slides and submit them via email to newsletter@nibsweb.org on or before 20 May 2021. Finalists will be asked to give a short presentation about their project at the NIBS Annual Conference, with the winner being selected via audience vote.

Selection criteria: Projects will be judged on the extent to which they:

- advance business education
- meaningfully engage students and/or faculty members
- have an international interest or horizon
- are inspiring
- have an impact on the host school or a network of schools
- potentially benefit the wider community

Both 'in progress' and completed projects are eligible. Further details are available at the following link David Gillingham Award

For further details and information on conference registration please visit the website, <http://www.nibsweb.org/conference/nibs-conference-2023/>

NIBS Accreditation

Congratulations to Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences for its successful reaccreditation and Dokuz Eylül University for its first NIBS accreditation. The accreditation panels are always impressed with the level of internationalisation demonstrated by NIBS members.

More NIBS accreditations are planned throughout this year. If you would like information on becoming NIBS accredited please contact Patrick Schoenmakers, Vice President for NIBS Accreditation.

NIBS Housekeeping

NIBS Directory - There are two options for keeping track of which of your university colleagues are on the NIBS mailing list. 1) you can log on to the NIBS Member Portal and check in the NIBS Directory, don't worry if you have a forgotten your password, it takes minutes to get a new one sent. 2) or you can email newsletter@nibsweb.org and ask for your university membership list.

NIBS LinkedIn - don't forget to link with @Network of International Business Schools on LinkedIn and share your news.

NIBS Opportunities - members are welcome to share opportunities via the NIBS Opportunity Board, just send an email with your opportunity to newsletter@nibsweb.org.

NIBS Welcome

Please join the NIBS Board in welcoming our newest member, The Academic College of Tel Aviv-Yaffo, members interested in getting in touch can contact Prof. Vered Holzmann.

Best wishes,

Hans van Oudheusden
